

Raising the Auction Benchmark

2010 launched SPACE into their new structure for auctions which was to prove to be the best move yet.

The decision was made late 2009 by Managing Director Nick Penklis to move all auctions in room. "There is always the argument on which is better with Auctions; either on-site or in-rooms. We are now moving towards in-room auctions because both buyers and sellers have the opportunity to gain valuable knowledge on current market activity based on a cross section of properties being offered together. Our lifestyles have changed and we are trying to cram in as much as possible whilst retaining some form of balance. The traditional Saturday morning Auction is in huge competition with other Auctions at the same time, unpredictable weather patterns, but more importantly, so many sporting and recreational activities. Whilst we will always keep an open mind for the best possible outcome for our clients, all auction evenings to date night have proved that even in competition with sporting events, business functions and personal commitments, we are able to achieve excellent results. Our production team delivered a first class product and no doubt that inspired buyers to bid. After each occasion we look forward to our next in room auctions, with each event gaining more and more momentum for SPACE."

Each of the in room auctions have been absolutely packed to the rafters with enthusiastic punters, all eager to see if SPACE can put on another great show. At each event we see Auctioneer Jason Andrew at his best as well as the SPACE team all working as one to promote and sell a fabulous cross section of properties ranging from entry level to premium.
