Australian Owned Trident Computers have joined other local businesses calling Hallmarc Business Park Bayside home.

The new premises will act as the IT specialists head office running the business operations division and will accommodate more than 16 staff.

Trident Computers began in 1984 as a systems integrator providing network integration, solution delivery and product procurement to small businesses and the education sector.

Trident now work with small to large sized businesses from 5 to 500 people assisting with IT workflow requirements, data management, security and IP cameras, computer purchases and maintenance support.

The I.T specialists still work with the Education market providing a vast range of services including IT procurement, contracting services and project management.

Ms McGorian director of Trident Computers said "after operating out of the same premises for over three decades we knew it was time for an upgrade, we had outgrown our space and really wanted a fresh new look in a location that enabled our business to grow and prosper".

"After our first inspection, we immediately agreed that the Business Park offered a lovely relaxing environment which we really wanted to be a part of".

"The modern facade and main road exposure also played a big part in our decision, said Ms McGorian".

"We chose to lease the two storey office fronting the Business Park which gave us the highest visibility from Reserve Rd and our signage would be prominent to the busy street".

"The location of the Business Park was perfect; we needed to keep within the Bayside area which is home to many of our employees. Access to the Nepean Hwy and use of Beach Rd was important for visiting clients".

"Operating within a Business Park meant that networking opportunities were right at our doorstep, we plan to utilize these networking opportunities over the coming months and using it to our advantage", said Ms McGorian.

"Another drawing card was the fact that the Hallmarc Business Park offered the total solution, from assistance with fit outs, design, office furniture, telecommunication and signage to the ongoing management of the Business Park, they were basically a one stop shop".

Trident Computers are thrilled to be a part of the Business Park and the Hallmarc community and believe that their staff levels of satisfaction have most certainly improved since moving to such a beautiful environment.
